

Warranty and construction

We feel our product is unique, as it is kitchen furniture. It is an imported product, manufactured with and significant handmade elements in the production processes.

The timber kiln dried, cut on CNC machine, painted, packed, and freighted to New Zealand, which we feel delivers an amazing handmade kitchen with detail that will be appreciated for years to come.

The construction of our product is timber framing (Indonesian oak and various other timbers) with timber ply used in the central parts of the shaker doors, and inside framing. Blum hardware is our choice to compliment this product.

We use a two-pot lacquer paint system or different timber stain finishes where applicable, which are selected by our client.

We endeavour to use moving parts in all areas where possible, i.e., routers on joins and two-piece doors.

As is with all timber furniture and timber kitchens, movement may occur due to different climates it may encounter.

Please note this is the nature of the timber and beyond our control.

I hope this explains the product a bit more.
